WEIGHT MANAGEMENT

MINI-SURVEY RESULTS

Conversations with pet owners are initiated by veterinarians.
Owners are home more often
Normal routines have changed

Very seriously
Somewhat seriously
Not seriously at all

32%
46%
52%

Veterinary technicians play a major role in working directly with clients on their pet’s weight management program.

Identifying an accurate goal weight for overweight patients is a challenge.

Satisfied, but with some room for improvement
52%
32%

Veterinary teams possess all the necessary tools to implement successful weight management programs with owners of overweight pets.

AGREE 68%     DISAGREE 32%

Survey conducted on CommuniVET.com in December 2020.
This survey was made possible through the support of

Students/Other professionals in clinical practice
Veterinary practice office managers
Registered veterinary technicians or technologists
Veterinarians
Total responses

86% of surveyed veterinary professionals believed that less than half of owners of overweight pets with a weight-related comorbidity are actively engaged in a pet weight management program.

86%
9%
11%